

ACEXPIEL STRENGTHENS THE EUROPEAN PRESENCE IN ACLE 2019

The ALL CHINA LEATHER EXHIBITION (ACLE) will be opening its doors to exhibitors and visitors from 3rd to 5th September. An estimated 1,150 domestic and international exhibitors, covering raw hides, leathers, machinery, chemicals and associated industries of the tanning industry will be present at China's only international leather show.

International exhibitors will represent over 25% of overall number of exhibitors, the presence of the European Union mainly falling under the umbrella of French, German, British and Spanish companies.

Albeit the small Spanish representation at this international show, there is certain optimism for the Spanish companies exhibiting premium leathers and/or raw materials due to the fact that China still hosts many manufacturing plants for international fashion and footwear brands. As to the subsidiary industry, mainly chemicals and machinery, ACLE remains an important platform as a meeting point for current Chinese mainland clients as well as new potential clients.

The Spanish Tanners Association will be present through the three attending tanneries: Casas I Fills, La Doma de Curtidos and Inpelsa, all of which have a long international trajectory and are listed within the top 25 most internationally recognized players within the global leather market. With regard to the associated leather companies, under the umbrella of ACEXPIEL/SPANISH TANNERS we find Lamirsa, Leather Quimica, Marlet and Texapel, whom have been addressing the needs of the Chinese tanning industry. Their respective R&D departments are constantly innovating and developing innovative articles whilst ensuring environmental sustainability. The Olcina group is a global drum and paddle manufacturer, as well as automation solutions for the leather industry.
